Today is the start of the second semester - please verify your schedule during 1st hour today!

Don't forget tomorrow is Chili Day—come to the cafeteria at lunch tomorrow to taste the cozy, hearty flavors that everyone loves!

Any juniors interested in helping pick the theme for prom, please meet Mrs. Thurston in the commons during advisory on Friday

Attention seniors! If you are interested in law enforcement on a State level the State Troopers are looking for Cadets to hire starting at $17hr and includes a 401K. This is open right now and may not stay that way for long, so if you are interested please see Ms Webb in the library.

January's NHS meeting has been rescheduled for this Wednesday, Jan. 21st in the library right after school. A reminder to new members, stop by Mrs. Rexfrod's room (153) before that if you need the code for the Google Classroom.

Falcons, You may not notice it because it has become a part of your personality, but many of you have great manners! You treat and speak to others, like your parents, bosses, teachers, and even strangers, with great respect. When you've got a problem, you don't get angry and shout, but instead work through that issue calmly and thoughtfully. For all of the Falcons out there who take pride in the way they interact with others, this word is for you: Civility. Civility is courtesy and politeness. It is the act of showing regard for others, even when they make you angry or upset. It is disagreeing with others without disrespect or seeking common ground when you have a difference of opinion. To exercise civility is to exercise an extremely valuable skill that will take you far in life. Here it is in a sentence: The world would be a better place if we engaged in civility instead of trying to tear each other down. We should celebrate our differences instead of using them as reasons to dismiss and devalue each other. Check out the display case near the office if you want to learn more about our word of the week.
